

Strategic Planning and Catalysts for New Generation of Libraries

Sripriya S

Abstract

Today Library and Information society is passing through various new technologies to meet the information needs of people by providing high quality information system, services, products, based on the recorded human knowledge of the world, through the utilization of current and emerging information technologies, that is digital technologies. This paper describes Strategic Planning and Catalysts planning and Visions/Policies. It portrays social issues, intellectual property rights, uses requirements and satisfaction, models and framework for change management, consortia: Success and reality. In the concluding chapter it evaluates the free and equal access to digital information.

Miss. Sripriya S is second year MLISc student in DLIS at M. S University, Thirunelveli, India.

E-mail : ssriya78@yahoo.co.in