ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This dissertation is the fruit of the good offices of many….

Let me record, first of all, the meticulous and painstaking care of my guide, Dr Mathew Joseph, in bringing out this dissertation. Words would be inadequate to thank him for the pains he took in spite of the treatment he was undergoing for serious eye problems.

I carried out my research at the Department of English, St Thomas College, Palai and I should like to express my gratitude to Rev. Dr Mathew Kokkatt, who was the Principal when I started my work, and to Dr K.K. Jose, the present Principal. I also thank Dr Thomas Augustine Mundamattom, who headed the English Department till January 2010 and Prof. Tommy Cherian, who has succeeded him. In fact I thank each and every member of the English Department.

My thanks also belong to our manager Rev. Fr Thomas Choolaparampil and to Rev. Dr Joseph Ozhukayil, the principal of K.E.College, Mannanam. I am also indebted to Prof. V.M. Jose and to all my colleagues in the English Department for the help and support I have received from them.

Next I would like to record the services offered by various libraries of the country—JACIS, Hyderabad, libraries of the University of Hyderabad and CIEFL, and British Council, Hyderabad. I also would like to mention my debt to the CDS library, Anveshi Hyderabad, and Sakhi Women’s Resource Centre, Tiruvanandapuram.

I thank my cousins Unni and Riya for procuring for me some primary and secondary materials from London and Texas.

I thank all my siblings and friends for their care and concern. I owe a lot of gratitude to my parents and parents in law who bore with my devoting so much time for my research.

A few people remain to be thanked…

My two year old Joel — for sparing me all those hours away from him… my husband Jose for being there from beginning to end and for the unfailing moral support at every stage of my work…

Above all God Almighty who has his plans arranged for me even before I begin to dream of it…
