India's Working Poor
Balwinder Singh has provided his helping hand in developing links and surveying the far-flung households of the unorganized industry workers. Along with my these new friends, I also wish to thank the editor of the 'Jalandhar Industrial News', Mr. Kishan Lal Dhall for making available all the early volumes of this newspaper, from which I have been able to educate myself about the earlier history of Punjab's small scale industry. Nonetheless, I could not utilize this information much for my study mainly due to various inconsistencies in the reported information. I also wish to thank my friends Daljeet, Mandep and Bhupinder for making my stay comfortable at Jalandhar, Ludhiana and Sangrur respectively during my survey period.

In CDS, I am also thankful to the Chief Administrative Officer, Mr. Soman Nair and Academic Administrative Officer, Mr. Phil Roy for being very supportive in various administrative related matters. I also wish to record the contribution of CDS library and its staff, Mr. Anil Kumar, Mr. Amir, Mr. Shankar, Mr. Gopakumar, Mrs. Shobha Kannan, Mrs. Usha and Mrs. Anita, among others, have provided excellent library services.

My friends in CDS have provided their nice company and academic environment to work. The academic and non-academic interactions with my seniors M Venkatarayana, M Prabakaran, Subrato Mukherji, Rashi Kanta, M Parmeshwaram and Ranjan Das have sharpened my analytical skills. My batchmates and juniors especially Radha Narayan Mishra, Shyjan Davis, Haridal, T K Subramaniam, Amarodra, Braja, Atish, Nadhanett, Rikil, Vijay, Ananika and Rajeev Sharma will always remain a very much part of the sweet memories related to the CDS. The warm friendship of Indevoir and Jatinder will always be in my heart.

Back to my land in Punjab, I express my sincere thanks to Prof. Sucha Singh Gill, Prof. Ranjit Singh Ghuman, Prof. Labhinder Singh, Dr. Jaswinder Bnar and Dr. Sukhwinder Singh of Punjabi University, Patiala. All of these teachers have remained instrumental in keeping my spirits high during my research period here in Kerala. Dr. Labhinder Singh, in fact, has been just like Godfather. He has been very keen and always willing to listen about various domains of my life. I am grateful to this wonderful personality for teaching me much more in every aspect of life. The discussions with Prof. Manjit Singh of Punjabi University, Chandigarh has strengthened my research work. Thanks are also due to Dr. Krishan Chand (CRRID), Chandigarh for providing help during my visits to this research institute. I am thankful to Mr. Lakha Singh Toor - Deputy Director and Mr. Nakhat Singh - Joint Secretary of the 'Department of Women and Child Welfare' in Chandigarh for providing me the relevant information on the status of various social security schemes in Punjab. Similarly, the administrative staff of the Planning Commission, Labour Bureau and the ES0 unit has contributed significantly to my study by providing vital information about Punjab economy.

At this moment of joy, how can I forget the contribution of my mother and brothers who have always inspired me to work diligently. I am grateful to my brothers who have been very kind in facilitating my such high-level education. They have proved to be the best brothers of a child whose father has left him when he was just six years old. My sisters never forgot to call me for knowing about my health and study. I am also fortunate to have 'Saloni' as my life partner who contributed in various ways to this work. During the troubling times of hard disc crash, she has been there with me to provide much strength to redo most of the work that I had lost. By joining us in the later phase of this research, my son 'Vairis' has contributed a lot to this study. His naughty movements and pretty smiles have always made me happy and full of energy to work for more and more time. Above all, it has been the Almighty God who gave me patience, courage and the strength to complete this study.
