My study represents my journey in life through the last four years, guided and assisted by many. This study has been made possible because of innumerable cooperative efforts. I am deeply indebted to my supervisor, Dr. Sucharita Sen, who since she kindly agreed to take over my research supervision has given me constant support and encouraged all my endeavour’s. The space she provided for me to develop intellectually and personally is a realm that has shaped me. Without her invaluable guidance and active supervision, this study would not have evolved.
