Acknowledgement

I would like to express my sincere thanks to Prof. T. A. Nizami, Chairman, Department of Political Science, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, for providing necessary facilities for the work carried out by me.

I am also grateful to Prof. Murtuza Khan, a learned teacher, for his valuable suggestions and encouragements.

My sincere thanks are due to Dr. Sohail Jawaid, Reader, Department of Political Science, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, for the Supervision of the work and cooperation to complete my Ph.D. thesis. His positive comments, incessant inspirations, continuous help and noble guidance rendered to me can never be forgotten.

Words are also worth-mentioning to Prof. Arvind K. Sharma, Vice Chancellor, Mizoram University, who enthusiastically helped me during my visits to the Indian Institute of Public Administration (IIPA), New Delhi, where he was a senior Professor at that time. I am cordially thankful to Smt. Sunita Gulati, Librarian, IIPA for his cooperation during my several visits to the IIPA.

I am deeply indebted to Mr. M. Mutawassim Khan, Economist, National Council for Applied Economic Research (NCAER), New Delhi for his valuable suggestions and helps, whenever I visited the council library for my research work.

I wish to acknowledge with sincere thanks the cordial support of my parents, teachers, brothers and sisters and friends. Thanks are also due to Mr. Tariq Ahmad Khan for his flawless computer typing.
