I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my guide Dr. Vandana Sonwaney for her never-ending support for this research. Her ability to motivate at all times helped me immensely when things looked absolutely bleak and her resourcefulness helped me every time there was a 'crises' to be managed. She gave me independence to think and work on my own, while simultaneously ensured that I did not lose track of the goal. This work could never be completed without her continuous inspiration.

In addition to my guide, I would like to thank the Research Department at Symbiosis University, in particular, Ms Megha and Ms Sujata Arya for helping me with all my queries, from minor to major. The RRC committee of the university encouraged me every time with their thoughtful comments and tough questions.

My sincere thanks also goes to Mr. Ghulam Muntaka of NIA (National Insurance Academy), Pune, for arranging meetings with Insurance professionals and allowing me access to the NIA Library, where I could refer to a whole lot of reference material.

The Director, Staff and field workers of Jankidevi Bajaj Gram Vikas Sanstha, Pune, were instrumental in reaching out to remote corners of rural Pune. The field workers put in a lot of hard work (and re-work) to complete the survey part of the study. I commend their role in this research.

I shall remain ever grateful to my family for their unstinted moral support throughout this period of study.
